InterfaceFLOR sets up new combined office showroom in Mumbai

India Infoline News Service / 11:01 , Mar 08, 2010

The new show room features the full array of InterfaceFLOR carpet tiles and will be used to showcase all new products as they are launched

InterfaceFLOR India Pvt Ltd., the 100% subsidiary of InterfaceFLOR, a worldwide leader in the manufacture of modular commercial flooring, announced the opening of a new combined office and showroom in Mumbai. Located in the Prabhadevi Industrial Estate, diagonally opposite the famous Siddhivinayak Temple, this new office and showroom will cater to the growing demand for the company's innovative and sustainable carpet tiles.

InterfaceFLOR has been operating out of its current office in Mumbai since 2007, and is the company's hub for the entire region of Western India including the Pune region. The new showroom features the full array of InterfaceFLOR carpet tiles and will be used to showcase all new products as they are launched. The new location provides a convenient setting for architects, designers and end users to explore InterfaceFLOR's products and designs, enabling them to be viewed on a large scale.

Spread over 1350 sq. ft., the new combined office and showroom has an open layout for optimal space utilization and the use of uniform colour schemes ensures that the central focus of the showroom are the fabulous designs. As India is a key emerging market for InterfaceFLOR, the new office has been designed with the future growth plans in mind and to accommodate the increasing number of employees in the future.

Raj Menon, Country Manager, India at InterfaceFLOR said, "Mumbai has been a key market for us with a significant portion of our India business coming from the Western region. With the markets further opening up and an increasing number of Indian corporate businesses expanding their offices and operations, this is an important move for InterfaceFLOR India to step up its presence in Mumbai."

"InterfaceFLOR started business in India in 2001 and set up its fully owned subsidiary at Bangalore in 2007. In the last nine years, it has sold more than 3.1 million square metres of carpet tiles to over 300 major customers", added Raj Menon.

InterfaceFLOR makes and sells the industry's largest and most diverse range of carpet tiles. InterfaceFLOR modular flooring combines a high degree of functionality with a genuine sense of style and sustainability. In all its ranges, InterfaceFLOR offers architects and interior designers an almost infinite variety of colour combinations, textures and patterns, suitable for every kind of commercial installation.
